

Guess Who We Saw at AirVenture?

One of the benefits of attending an event where many mission aviation people are present is seeing people who went through the MMS mechanic training and are now serving overseas or with a U.S. based ministry. We had the joy of meeting up with several of our MMS “alumni”.

Mike Mahon and his family are on furlough from Peru. They serve with S. America Mission and are currently living in Coshocton during their time home. Mike has been volunteering in the MMS hangar during their furlough.

Roger Sands

Brian Lites

Roger Sands and Brian Lites serve with Missionary Flights International (MFI). This flying ministry is based in Ft Pierce, FL and serves missionaries in the Caribbean.

Ryan and Rachel Joy and family also stopped by AirVenture for a couple of days. They are home for a time from Brazil where they serve with Asas de Socorro.

Praises and Prayer needs

- Praise for God’s faithfulness even during an economic downturn.
- Praise for the opportunity to participate at AirVenture (also at Smoketown PA, Mission Aviation Fair).
- Pray for our parents and health concerns that advanced age brings.
- Pray for the adjustment of families who will be arriving soon from Alabama and the UK.

Time To Say Goodbye

Having finished their training at MMS, three families are now moving on to different areas of service in mission aviation. While it is hard to say goodbye, we are excited, knowing that the Lord will use them according to His purposes to further His Kingdom.

Scott, Lela, David, Amy, Gertjan and Glenda

Scott and Lela Lazaros will be serving in Alaska with Child Evangelism Fellowship and assisting with Mission Aviation Repair Center (MARC). David and Amy Mozombite will be leaving for Bolivia with South America Mission (SAMair). Gertjan and Glenda Kamphorst have joined Mission Aviation Fellowship (MAF) to serve in Indonesia. We will miss them. To learn more about these families you can follow their blogs. The links are on the MMS webpage.

Most of the MMS Family

The MMS family had a farewell potluck for them. Most of the group was able to attend. It was a great time of fellowship. New families will be arriving before the end of the year and several more are in the partnership raising stage and hope to be with us soon.

“Goodbyes” to airplanes are what it is all about, and this week was a high point. After extensive body work on a Cessna 182 for Moody Aviation, the MMS hangar personnel sent it on its way. Paul Jones, one of our apprentices made a video clip of the departure and it is well worth viewing on the MMS blog.

Thank you for your prayers and encouragement.
